Thank you to all who attended our Annual Meeting! It is always a good thing to be able to spend time with each other in a different setting, with good food and excellent speakers. The stories of the major roles played by Chester County women in the abolitionist movement, the women’s suffrage movement and the casting of the Justice Bell were fascinating! We thank Laurie Rofini and Holly Holst so very much! We know that we will see them again. And now, the next coming attraction will be the ---

PA State Convention - June 7-9, 2013 in Lewisburg, PA.

The LWVCC is proud to be sending 9 delegates to convention! Our enthusiastic representatives are ready to network, to learn about judicial reform, to attend workshops, caucuses, plenary sessions and more. Stay tuned for the next Voter to hear about their experiences. Or better yet, come to the Board Meeting on Saturday, June 29th to hear everything in person! We would love to see you.

Another huge Thank You! to Deb Gallek and Pat Horrocks for their heroic efforts transitioning our Voters Guide to SmartVoter format. The ups and downs were memorable. No doubt more kinks will need ironing for the November Election. Another set of hands or two would be gratefully appreciated to lighten the load for these two dedicated members! We also will need to continue spreading the word about where and how to tap into our Voters Guide.

On a serious note though, what can be done to encourage more voters to participate in the election process? Only 15% of eligible voters participated, while 36% of the candidates responded to LWV questions. Certainly, in a democracy, we have the freedom and right to participate or not. But, when citizens fail to participate, choose not to participate, what then? I couldn’t resist this quote.

“Elections belong to the people. It’s their decision. If they decide to turn their back on the fire and burn their behinds, then they will just have to sit on their blisters.”

— Abraham Lincoln

Another Pennsylvania Primary Election and again – voter turnout was very disappointing.

Four years ago, the Chester County voter turnout in the 2009 Primary was 15%. Despite the fact that Independents cannot vote in the PA Primary, these numbers are terrible. (12.6%)

- We MUST and CAN do more to inform, educate and encourage ALL of our eligible citizens to participate in the political process and VOTE. If you have comments and ideas about how we can increase voter turnout, send them in to one of our board members.

- Our goal is to keep the lines of communications OPEN – to and from all of our board members, committee chairs and YOU.

- Local elections affect us directly and the people we vote for determine our future.

We are the League of Women Voters and VOTING is our priority.

Many employers offer as a benefit a Matching Gift Program. They will donate to charitable, educational, or community-based organizations supported by employees.

For those members who are employed, it may be worthwhile calling your Benefits Department to ask whether this is available. A few minutes spent filling out a form could mean your annual dues or check made out to the LWVCC Education Fund could have a double impact.

CELEBRATING JUNE WILSON & THE CC HEALTH DEPARTMENT’S 45TH ANNIVERSARY

What a wonderful day. On May 7, 2013, the Chester County Commissioners recognized former League member June Wilson and the Chester County Health Department for their outstanding contributions to the health and welfare of the people of Chester County. June and Gene Wilson’s son Tom and granddaughter Jacky were presented with a citation along with Margaret Rivello, Health Department Director. Thank you League members for celebrating with us at a reception at the Health Department where additional citations were presented by Senators Dinniman and Pileggi’s staff members. We love saying thank you to our League members who work so hard and make such a difference to improve the quality of life for all of us.

THANK YOU DOWNINGTOWN COUNTRY CLUB

Our League of Women Voters of Chester County Annual Meeting was outstanding this year…..thanks to our members, guests and speakers, but especially to the DOWNINGTOWN COUNTRY CLUB. Sorry to those of you who could not join us, but plan to attend next June 2014, same place, for another wonderful League event.

ENVIRONMENTAL COMMITTEE ANNUAL REPORT

The LWVCC Environmental Committee continues to promote an environment beneficial to life through protection and wise management of natural resources in the public interest, and to promote policies that manage land as a finite resource and that incorporates principles of stewardship. (LWVUS Natural Resources Positions)

The main focus this year has been on monitoring the gas, oil and coal mining industry activities and taking necessary action to avoid impacts on the environment, health, welfare, and safety of the public. Monitoring includes – legislative actions, court decisions, false statements, collusion, corporate power, unfair and unjust settlements, public and organizational meetings, workshops, and conferences.

Further research, study is done in order to update material facts and beliefs and to understand the complexities of mining for fossil fuels and to explore the aspects of alternative energy.

We collaborate with scientists, physicians, ecologists, engineers, attorneys, legislators, municipal officials, conservation and economic development organizations.

We also focus on other conservation issues:
The effects of Climate Change on the natural resources.
Clean Water and Clean Air Legislation.
Municipality Rights to govern: planning and zoning to protect the natural resources to ensure public health, welfare and safety.

Environmental News from Around the Nation

Pipeline fight in (Texas) Legislature is ‘battle of the titans’

Posted: 10:52 p.m. Thursday . May 9, 2013

By Tim Eaton – American-Statesman Staff (Excerpts)

Deep in the undercurrents of the 83rd legislature session, a storm is brewing that strikes fear in the hearts of many lawmakers. It may ultimately, force them to choose between disappointing private property rights advocates, or going against some of the powerful oil and gas interests that give generously to their political campaigns. It is a choice few want to make. Though the conflict has played out largely behind the scenes, two of the nation’s richest family dynasties – the powerful Bass family from Fort Worth and the Koch brothers of Kansas and New York – are pitted against one another, with trial lawyers, environmentalists, farmers and ranchers thrown into the fray. “It’s sort of a battle of the titans, said state Rep. Denniss Bonnen, R-Angleton. At issue are the legal powers given to energy companies to condemn and take private land for pipelines.

For years, pipeline companies have found it relatively easy to use the eminent domain process to acquire private property. Land owners have little choice but to give up their land, though they can haggle over price. But to wield the power of eminent domain, pipelines must be considered “common carriers,” meaning they allow other companies access to their pipes. Companies building pipelines for their own use face a more difficult – and often expensive – task in negotiating the necessary rights. To be a common carrier, companies have needed to do little more than check a box on a form at the Texas Railroad Commission, the state’s oil and gas regulator, attesting that they are or intend to be a common carrier. But a 2011 Texas Supreme Court decision cast a cloud of uncertainty over the process. The ruling created a prospect for Texas landowners facing condemnation to file lawsuits in counties across the state challenging common carrier status. The result for energy companies could be years of expensive lawsuits in dozens of the state’s 254 courthouses. The Basses essentially are involved because they believe passionately in property owner’s rights. The Koch family – Koch Enterprises, a multi-national conglomerate with petroleum interests support new laws letting the Railroad Commission and Travis County courts handle all challenges to common carrier status.
‘Monsanto Protection Act’: Chemical monopoly writes its own law
By Betsey Piette www.workers.org (Excerpts)

On March 24, the pro-Monsanto “Farmer Assurance Provision, Section 735” rider was quietly slipped into the Agricultural Appropriations provisions of HR 933, the Continuing Resolution spending bill designed to avert a federal government shutdown. Section 735 should have been labeled the “Monsanto Protection Act.” Now law for the next six months after President Barack Obama signed HR 933 on March 29, it allows agribusiness giant Monsanto to promote and plant genetically modified organisms (GMOs) and genetically engineered (GE) seeds, free from any judicial litigation that might decide the crops are unsafe. Even if a court review determines that a GMO crop harms humans, Section 735 allows the seeds to be planted once the USDA approves them. Public health lawyer Michele Simon says the Senate bill requires the USDA to “ignore any court ruling that would otherwise halt the planting of new genetically-engineered crops.”

CIVIL LIBERTIES

In March our Civil Liberties Committee met with renewed interest in the United v. Federal Election Commission because of our growing perception of the political ramifications of that decision on our elections and the growing power of corporations. We were able to make contact with the Concord-Amherst, Massachusetts League who had studied the court decision for several years and who graciously sent us copies of background material with a power point presentation that they had used and were sharing with other leagues. This certainly would make our work easier. At our April meeting we divided up the questions for study and the bibliographic sources that Susan Fields had previously recommended. We hope to be ready with our own public event in the fall.

Have you ever heard of Mira Lloyd Dock? She lived from 1853 to 1945, much of that time in Harrisburg. She developed interests in woman suffrage and the conservation of natural resources. She is described as forceful and an effective lobbyist; she founded Harrisburg’s Civic Club.

The author of a biography (“Mira Lloyd Dock and the Progressive Era Conservation Movement”), Susan Rimby, will speak about her on June 12th, 5:30 pm, at the Athenaeum in Philadelphia. The cost is $10, and details can be read at www.philaathenaeum.org/programs.html.
AGRICULTURE COMMITTEE

Carol Kuniholm, Chair

While work continues on the national agriculture update study, our local agriculture committee will be hosting a caucus on agriculture at the PALWV convention on the afternoon of June 8. Brian Snyder, executive director of PASA (Pennsylvania Association of Sustainable Agriculture) will be the guest speaker, presenting "Jump-start Your League Ag Study: Sustainable Foodsheds for the Future."

Brian shares his expertise on food policy and sustainable foodsheds on his recently created blog: Write to Farm (writetofarm.com).

For the future, the committee hopes to partner with area farmers and local food and farming organizations in events that build dialogue and awareness about local food systems. The committee is seeking host a fall farm tour, and considering a fund-raising event highlighting local artisan wines and cheeses.

Work on agriculture issues will continue when the national study materials are made available in the fall.

In the meantime, anyone interested in helping with a farm and food event, or interested in being on an advocacy update email list should contact Carol Kuniholm.

VOTERS SERVICE

Mary Lou Dondero, Chair

The final weeks before the Municipal Primary brought three requests for Candidates Debates for School Boards. On May 5, the League sponsored a debate for the candidates in the West Chester Area School District. Jennifer Levy-Tatum acted as moderator, Anne Crowley was the timer, and Pam Gray, Cheryl Knoell, Cathy Palmquist, and Ginnie Newlin acted as screeners. On May 8, we visited Great Valley High School with Toni Keg as moderator, Joan Bergquist as time, and Michele Howard, Geri Joseph, and Barbara DeWilde as screeners. On May 5, we visited the Fred S. Engle Middle School in the Avon Grove School District with Charlotte Gosselink as moderator, Deb Gallek as timer, and Susan Rzucidlo, Carlotta Mannheim, and Pat Horrocks as screeners. Many thanks to all the League members who made these important events possible.

We are grateful for the Daily Local News for streaming live the West Chester Candidates Debates and for the excellent coverage of all three debates in the newspaper. Thank you Jeremy Garrard and Brent Glasgow!

In July, we will await the court’s decision on the Voter ID law, and on August 2, we will register the new citizens following the Naturalization Ceremony. Through August and September, we will register voters at county libraries and the Exton Square Mall.

If you would like to help with any of these events or have ideas you would like to share, please give me a call.

P.S. We already have one debate on our fall schedule – East Fallowfield Supervisors. If you live out that way and would like to help, please get in touch!

“FRIENDS HELPING FRIENDS”

Once again, the League is partnering with the Boscov’s Department Stores for their “Friends Helping Friends” fund-raising event for non-profit organizations. This year’s date is Tuesday, October 22 when, with the purchase of a $5.00 shopping pass, shoppers will receive a 25% discount on virtually the entire store! Since the $5.00 cost stays with the League, this is a great opportunity for the League as well everyone who shops at Boscov’s on that day! If you have taken advantage of this opportunity in the past, I can assure you that you will not be disappointed! Shopping passes not only provide a great shopping experience for you but also for your family and friends! Please send me your order as soon as possible, enclosing your check made out to the League.

Book Group Update – Notes from last Book Club May 6, 2013
Carol Kuniholm

The League’s new book group met on May 6 to discuss The Parties vs. The People: How to Turn Republicans and Democrats into Americans, by Mickey Edwards. Edwards highlights specific aspects of election law that have led to increasing partisan polarity, and suggests practical ways to reverse this.

The book discussion focused on aspects most pertinent to Pennsylvania: closed primaries that disenfranchise independent voters, and ballot access rules that make it difficult for independent or 3rd party candidates to appear on the ballot, redrawn districts that guarantee party control of most districts, and campaign finance laws that “permit political parties, and thus party leaders, to play significant, often decisive roles in congressional races, helping to create a Congress in which legislators not only feel a strong sense of obligation to party leaders but are aware that their future success may depend on not alienating these leaders.”

The group’s discussion focused on the first three of Edward’s recommendations:

Step One: Take Away the Right of the Parties to Control Access to the Ballot
Step Two: Take Away the Parties’ Control over Redistricting
Step Three: Reduce Spending, Increase Competition

PALWV has partnered with Common Cause PA on some of these issues, and has a strong statement on apportionment and redistricting. Pennsylvania is one of only 13 states with completely closed primary elections, and according to the Pennsylvania Ballot Access Coalition, “No other state puts such a heavy burden on its independent and third party candidates.”

The next book group meeting will be on July 1, at 10:30 AM at the Second Reading II bookstore at 929 South High Street, West Chester. The book will be Plutocrats: The Rise of the New Global Super-Rich and the Fall of Everyone Else, by Cynthia Freeland, digital editor at Thomson Reuters. She has been a finance reporter for The Economist, The Washington Post, and the Financial Times. Plutocrats has been described as “the definitive examination of inequality in our time.

BROOKINGS Presents SUBURBAN POVERTY SUMMIT at Building One America
July 18-19, 2013

Lora Lavin
610.328.3746
lavin@steuber.com

As we contemplate the future of LWVSEPR we might want to consider the implications for our region of the recently release Brookings Institution study “Confronting Suburban Poverty in America”. Here is a link to information about the study http://www.washingtonpost.com/blogs/wonkblog/wp/2013/05/23/poverty-is-now-growing-twice-as-fast-in-the-suburbs-as-in-the-city/. The case studies do not include the Philadelphia region but that does not mean that we are not affected by this phenomenon. Below is information about a summit in DC in July. I am not suggesting that anyone try to go although it would be great if anyone could. The book identifies issues that have been the subject of SEPR program for years, including mass transit and suburban sprawl. The coming summit reminded me of an event I attended in Lancaster a few years ago (2010?) entitled “Building One Pennsylvania” which focused on school funding. I decided to Google it and found out it is still very much alive and hooked in to the DC event. Here is a link http://buildingonepa.org/. Lora
